COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyle's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyle's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, making one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

Thin, Nervous People Need Bitro-Phosphate

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks. Thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, thin people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angustia give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION: Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. In taking it, it is not to be put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Advertisement.

Murderers Are Thought to Be Somewhere in Utah

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Search for the murderers of Michael J. Needham, driver of a rent automobile, whose body was found in the outskirts of the city last Friday morning, turned to Utah today, and news of their capture was expected hourly by Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson.

Captain Matheson says he has information that Needham's machine entered Utah, presumably driven by the murderers, and the authorities of that state have been asked to help in the man hunt. Needham disappeared last Tuesday evening. When his body was found it was seen that he had been beaten to death and that his automobile had been stolen, presumably by the slayers.

The police have found witnesses who say that Needham started on the night of his disappearance with three men who entered his car as passengers. One of these passengers has been identified by a photograph as a man named Landers, said to be wanted in Baltimore for the murder of a chauffeur. Another of the passengers now sought, as a murderer is believed by the police to have worn a soldier's uniform, as an army button and fragment of khaki cloth were found near the body of Needham, indicating that they had been torn off in a death struggle.

"SUNDOWN TRAIL" THE PICTURE BRIDE STORY ON SCREEN

It has been learned that the "picture-bride" problem now confronting immigration officials on the west coast did not originate among the Japanese. This was discovered recently when the research department at Universal City set out to confirm a disputed point contained in "Sundown Trail," a story purchased from the pen of J. G. Hawks.

The story set forth that the miners of Spanish Bar, a gold camp of 1849, sent one of their number east to return with a cargo of women to be married upon their arrival to the miners. The messenger who journeyed to the east advertised for women and collected crayon pictures of them. These he sent back to Spanish Bar by the fast pony express. The pictures were placed in a box and drawn on chance by the miners. The picture he drew was the wife he married when the stage arrived.

Whether the Japanese adopted the custom in bringing women from the Orient to the miners or whether the miners borrowed the custom from the Japanese was the disputed point. It developed that a Japanese agent in America heard of the Spanish Bar affair and made an account of it to the institution that sent him to the west as an observer of American customs. The Japanese peasant adopted the custom which is today causing so much discussion on the Pacific coast.

The story of wife-lottery is being told at the Utah theatre, in "Sundown Trail."

Spain recently celebrated the discovery of America by Columbus—Germany didn't.

ARTISTS WORTH WHILE SEEN AT THE ORPHEUM

(By Rev. Godfrey Matthews.)
Manager Goss has every reason to be pleased at the quality of the artists appearing on the Pantages circuit this season. Only very rarely has an act appeared that was worth a cheer. Yesterday's bill at the Orpheum was exceedingly good, indeed.

While innocent of plot, and revealing no star, either as a vocalist or dancer, yet George Choo musical comedy, "Perhaps You're Right," was pleasing to listen to, pretty to see, and had enough humor in it to keep the laughter merrily brightening the house.

The "Imperial Quartette" are an operatic troupe very well worth hearing indeed. They sang excerpts from "La Marseillaise," "The Toreador," "Funiculi, Funicula," and in every detail of their production proved again the contention of theatre critics that the better the show the better the audience is pleased. They were well received and loudly applauded, and they deserved it all.

Florence Ray is a solo vocalist who has a pleasing way of getting her songs "over the footlights." We confess that we will enjoy her better next time when she has better songs. Her voice is pleasing and her manner attractive and she is worth a good deal better song than any she sang yesterday.

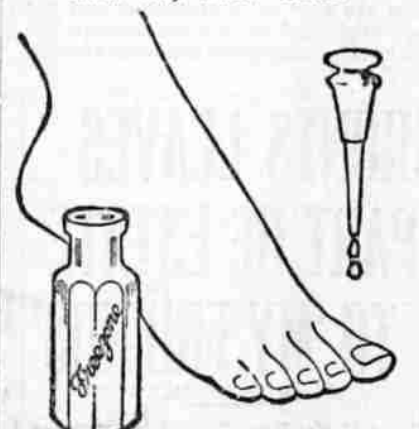

"Leave Me Alone, Darn You," is a duo act in which a charming girl and near-beer imbecile contrive to keep the audience absolutely convulsed with laughter.

Ray Conlin, who calls his act an effort in sub-vocal comedy is a ventriloquist who is especially pleasing, when he is clean. His manipulation of his doll is funny in the extreme and the audience is kept interested and amused during every moment of his act. For this reason it is a pity that an artist with such great power to make good fun is not willing to dispense with his two and three-quarter per cent jokes. The audience doesn't need them in order to enjoy his act, and he does not need the aid of such so-called wit to increase his reputation as a very clever ventriloquist. Mr. Conlin's act is too good to spoil in such a way.

The Three Romanos Sisters are what a little girl friend of ours calls "pathetic" dancers. That is, they are aesthetic dancers and they are good to look at and watch in all the beauty of the movement of their dance. They could improve it, though, if they would smile now and again. Yesterday they gave the impression that the dancing was so difficult that they hadn't time to think about anything else. A little self-conscious, but very good.

Faith's Weekly, The Literary Digest clippings on the "movie" were much enjoyed, and the Orpheum orchestra under Albert Erickson contributed to a bill worth seeing.

Lift off Corns! Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, and the hard skin caluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

Record Number of Divorces in Wales And in England

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—England and Wales have furnished a record number of cases for the new term of the divorce court in October. It is expected that there will be about 2,000 cases, or more than double the total for any previous list. About half there will be brought by people of small means, who have taken advantage of the facilities offered by the official bureau which has been established since the war began to assist the poor people in obtaining relief in the divorce court without going to the heavy expense which the ordinary procedure involves.

There has been a steady increase in the number of divorce cases in this country since the beginning of the war and the problem has been receiving much public attention. Two parties have grown up, one favoring more liberal divorce laws, and the other decrying the growing number of separations of this kind. As to the cause of the increase there is a divergence of opinion.

Official records show that a large number of soldiers on returning from the war have instituted suits against their wives on the ground of infidelity. The claim frequently has been made that the war has resulted in a decided lowering of moral standards. This is denied emphatically by D. Figur, of a firm of solicitors, who have more than a hundred divorce cases coming up in the next term, and who are handling about one thousand in various stages.

"The increase in the number of divorces is certainly due to the war," said Mr. Figur to a representative of the Associated Press, "but it is absolutely wrong to say that there has been a great slump in English morals. Undoubtedly there have been many cases of infidelity due to separations incident to the war, but this is not the main factor in the increase."

"The reason we are getting more divorces is simply because the war has taught both men and women independence, and has taught them to think. Women have learned that they have an individuality and that they can look after themselves. The men, too, have come to take a broader view of life."

"The fact is that there would have been just as many divorces before the war if people had not been shackled by lack of initiative and by fear of challenging conventions of society."

CROWDS KIDNAP KANSAS FARMER

STAFFORD, Kan., Nov. 7.—Mistaking a Stafford farmer for a Non-Partisan league speaker, a crowd which attempted to break up a meeting here last night, kidnapped Jay McFadden, took him in an automobile several miles out of town and, discovering his mistake, released him.

The meeting was well under way, McFadden having introduced O. E. Wood, of Lincoln, Neb., Non-Partisan league organizer, when about fifty men entered the hall from front and rear. In the confusion, McFadden was mistaken for Wood, a sack slipped over his head and he was taken from the building. After quiet had been restored, Wood finished his speech and remained here overnight.

This Medicine Recommended by a Doctor

When a doctor uses a medicine himself besides prescribing it to his patients, he must know that it has merit.

This is what Dr. J. H. Wagner, a prominent physician of State, Kentucky, has to say about Dr. Hartman's well-known remedy, PERUNA. "I have used PERUNA myself for catarrh and have given it to others for catarrh, bloating after eating and other ailments. It has proved a success in all cases with old and young men and women. All speak well of PERUNA. It is the best of all tonics."

Dr. Wagner, out of the fullness of his own personal experience, for the good of all sick and suffering, recommends a medicine which he knows to be good. You may be sure a doctor would not endanger his professional reputation by endorsing PERUNA unless satisfied beyond a doubt of its value.

Whether your trouble be a cough or a cold, or a more subtle catarrhal affection of the stomach, bowels or other organs, give PERUNA a trial. The immediate improvement which you will see will satisfy beyond a doubt that PERUNA is what you need. PERUNA may be purchased anywhere in tablet or liquid form.—Advertisement.
